

CHRISTINA (CHRIS) PARKER

I started playing bridge in my parent's living room and was a casual bridge player until I met my husband, Stewart Rubenstein. We became engaged at my first national bridge tournament and announced our engagement in the Bulletin the next day. I became a serious bridge player when I retired, about 5 years ago. Bridge is now a central part of my life and it is time to give back. I don't have an agenda for what I would do on the EMBA board. I would like to contribute in whatever way I can to increase membership, and to make bridge a fun endeavor that will attract more people to the game.
